

Master's Thesis für den Studiengang Bauingenieurwesen

Housing condition and health (Wohnungszustand und Gesundheit)

Housing is a central component of productive, healthy, and meaningful lives and a principle social determinant of health and well-being. This project aims to investigate the impact of housing condition on individuals' health outcome.

Expectation:

- Comprehensive literature review on the relationship between housing condition and health
- Quantitative analysis on the relationship between housing condition and self-reported health condition using SOEP database.

Suggested Literature:

Mary Shaw (2004). Housing and Public Health. Annual Review of Public Health 2004 25:1, 397-418

Bonnefoy, X. Mraubach, M. Davidson, M. Röbbel. (2007). A pan-European housing and health survey: description and evaluation of methods and approaches. Int. J. Environment and Pollution.

Betreuung: Prof. Dr. Bing Zhu

